IKARIA NAMES EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT OF RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

Clinton, NJ, October 1, 2007 – Ikaria Holdings, Inc. announced today that Ralf Rosskamp, M.D., has been appointed Executive Vice President of Research and Development, reporting to Chairman and CEO David Shaw.

Dr. Rosskamp most recently was Executive Vice President of R&D at Kos Pharmaceuticals. Prior to joining Kos, Ralf was Vice President of Global Therapeutic R&D for Endocrinology, Metabolism, Rheumatology and Bone at Aventis Pharmaceuticals. Earlier in his career he held executive positions at Hoechst Pharmaceuticals and served as a senior physician in the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Bonn (Germany), where he earned his M.D.

“Ralf has extensive experience in a wide range of important drug development activities, including clinical research, regulatory affairs, clinical pharmacology, aerosol and solid dose R&D, biomedical engineering, pharmacovigilance, medical affairs and project/portfolio management,” stated Mr. Shaw. “He has been very successful in managing pharmaceutical R&D efforts in both large and small companies. We expect Ikaria to benefit significantly from his knowledge, experience and leadership as we build a leading company in critical care medicine.”
